

BOSTON BRICK

Vintage atmospheres inspired by the residential buildings and manufacturing plants of old Boston, built out of typical red brick, a material reinterpreted today through an original language that makes it to stand out in the panorama of interior design. Boston Brick is the latest proposal by CIR Manifatture Ceramiche, a porcelain stoneware featuring a rich and extremely varied surface, imbued with a slice of life, developed in a small size.

The distressed look adds charm to a collection that was inspired by a specific urban context: on the one hand it calls to mind Boston's picturesque Beacon Hill neighbourhood, one of the most well-known areas of the city, featuring brick houses with recognizable colours; on the other the early 20th century American industrial buildings. The brick tile takes us back to that context, which becomes surprising relevant today thanks to CIR ceramic technology.

The collection is divided into five colours with shade variations: from the delicate Seaport and Southie, shades of light gray and beige, to the more intense North End, Rovere and Back Bay, which include a range of chestnut, dark red and soot grey. In addition to the classic 10x20 cm "brick", Boston Brick is also available in the hexagonal tile to conceive more creative and dynamic installations, perfect for clothing floors and walls.
